A New Logo!

As you can see at the top of this newsletter, the IACM has created a new logo. For those of you looking for the familiar red square, we want to assure you that the Signal is still the newsletter of the IACM; only the logo has changed.

Second Conference of the IACM

One last reminder! The Second Conference of the IACM will be meeting on June 11-14, 1989 at the University of Georgia, Athens, GA. All papers and proposals for workshops and symposia must be received by October 15, 1988. If you are not sure which track chair to forward your material to, contact Afzal Rahim at Western Kentucky University, (502) 745-2499.

We would like to encourage all IACM members to attend this conference if possible. In addition to the high quality paper sessions, etc., we will be holding some important meetings on the future directions and development of the IACM. We want all the members to have a voice in the planning – it's your organization.

Praeger Publishers will publish our second book, Theory and Research in Conflict Management, which will contain some selected papers presented at the conference. Also, some of the papers will be included in a new quarterly publication titled, Journal of Conflict Management, which will be edited and published by Afzal Rahim (see notice of same below). At this point, the journal is an independent publication and is not associated formally with the IACM.

Membership Drive

As all of us are aware, the IACM decided to charge a minimal amount for dues this past year with the money being used primarily to defray expenses for our bibliography publications and our Bi-Annual Conferences (a financial report of IACM funds is provided below). While this move initially decreased membership, we are pleased to inform you that we are now 104 strong and steadily growing. We would like to appeal to you, however, to help us to increase our membership. There are many grant and other funding opportunities that would be available to us if we were larger. More importantly, however, increased membership will add important perspectives and viewpoints to our interactions and contribute to the development of our field. Please refer any potential members to:

New Journal

Journal of Conflict Management

This quarterly journal will publish original articles, case studies, book reviews, role-playing exercises, and teaching notes in the area of organizational conflict, negotiation and bargaining, mediation and arbitration, communication and conflict, public sector conflict, and international conflict. Manuscripts should be prepared according to the APA style guide and will be reviewed by double-blind review process. Four copies of the manuscripts and requests for other details should be sent to:

Afzal Rahim, Editor
Journal of Conflict Management
Dept. of Management and Marketing
Western Kentucky University
Bowling Green, KY 42101
(502) 745-5408 or 745-2499

IACM Publications Revisions

1. Afzal is working on the 3rd edition of A Bibliography on Conflict: Research and Publications of the IACM Members. This edition will contain only the publications of the members. To be included you must forward your list to Afzal by February 15. Your list must be prepared strictly according to the APA style guide. He would appreciate receiving two copies of your lists and would prefer that they be sent on floppy disks. (Note: the word processing softwares being used by IACM include WordStar, WordPerfect, and Microsoft Word)
2. Sanda Kaufman is collaborating with Afzal to prepare the 2nd edition of our publication A Bibliography of Doctoral Dissertations and Masters' Theses on Conflict. Your inquiries and suggestions should be addressed to:

Dr. Sanda Kaufman
College of Urban Affairs
Cleveland State University
Urban Building Room 113
Cleveland, OH 44115

New IACM Member Publications Clearinghouse

The Signal would like to start a new feature in its next issue. We would like to announce the publication of any member's papers, books, etc. that occur during the time period between issues. These publications need not be limited to those pertaining to conflict. Send us any publication for announcement and we will be glad to print it. We hope it might be helpful to keep up to date on each other's work. Please send any upcoming publications to:

Steven Musser, Editor
Signal
Messiah College
Grantham, PA 17027

Graduate Program in Conflict Management

George Mason University, 4400 University Drive, Fairfax, VA 22030-4444 has begun to offer a Ph.D. program in Conflict Analysis and Resolution. They plan to continue offering their M.S. program in Conflict Management as well. For details, contact the Center for Conflict Analysis and Resolution at the address above.

New Newsletter

A new and very informative newsletter on arbitration and dispute resolution titled, The Alternative Newsletter, may be helpful to many of our members. It contains A.D.R. events calendars, book reviews, grant opportunities, and bibliographies as well as news of who is doing what. If you haven't received a copy but would like to, contact:

James B. Boskey, Editor
The Alternative Newsletter

Newark, New Jersey 07102

Humor For the Spurned Researcher

Did you ever wonder what a colleague thinks when reading one of your articles? The following list of thoughts probably confirms our worst fears. Read them with a smile.

A colleague can disparage any of your publications if:

- it is co-authored. (you can't publish alone)
- it is sole-authored. (you can't work with others)
- it is an empirical piece. (you're a number-cruncher)
- it is a think piece. (you can't do empirical work)
- it is one of many publications. (you can't teach)
- it is one of few publications. (you can't research)
- it is a lab study. (not realistic)
- it is a field study. (lacks experimental control)
- it is grant-supported. (is this all there is for all that $$ ?)
- it is non-funded. (you weren't good enough to get a grant)
- it is in a practitioner journal. (you can't do scholarly research)
- it is in an academic journal. (you're in an ivory tower)
- it is a conference presentation. (it wasn't good enough for the proceedings)
- it is in the proceedings. (you "knew" someone)
- it is from your dissertation. (it's really the committee's work)
- it's not from your dissertation. (your dissertation was lousy)

New NIDR Video Catalog Project

The National Institute for Dispute Resolution (NIDR) has funded a project to collect and catalog videotapes available for teaching and training in alternate dispute resolution. Videos will be reviewed and catalogued, with a Fall 1988 publication planned. NIDR is interested in all videotapes on negotiation, mediation, arbitration, settlement conferences, mini trials and any hybrid approaches or use of neutral facilitators. If you would like to have a videotape listed and described in the NIDR catalog, along with ordering information, please send a copy of the video to project director Jay Folberg, Lewis and Clark Law School, 10015 SW Terwilliger, Portland, Oregon 97219. If you have any questions, suggestions, or leads, he requests you write or call him at (503) 244-1181.

Community Board Program

Conflict Manager Institutes equip educators to plan and implement student-to-student Conflict Manager programs. Participants gain skills that give their schools the capacity to sustain an effective program and upgrade their professional capabilities.

November 15-18, San Francisco

October 11-14, New York City

4 days, $425
